Cross-Curriculum Lesson Plan
Magic Tree House #21: Civil War on Sunday

Lessons for Whole-Class Reading

Materials:
- Computer with a connection to a TV or Smart Board
- Copies of Reading Guides and Reading Guide Key
- Rubrics in Accompanying Materials
- Project Menus for each student (in Accompanying Materials)
- Lyrics for “Dixie” and “Battle Hymn of the Republic” (http://www.civilwarmusic.net/songs.php)
- Drummer’s and Fife’s Guide (in Accompanying Materials)

Procedures:
- Introduce Civil War on Sunday by showing pictures of Civil War destruction. What could have caused such damage? Why fight wars if such destruction is the result?

- Suggested activities to use with certain chapters:
  - Before Chapter 3: Discuss how injuries are a result of war. Show picture of a Civil War field hospital at http://player.discoveryeducation.com/index.cfm?guidAssetId=10B9E012-8306-4241-9AAA-B495708C5599&blnFromSearch=1&productcode=US. How would you like to be there if you were sick?
  - After Chapter 4: Create a Venn diagram comparing and contrasting hospitals today and during the Civil War.
  - After Chapter 6: Have students draw Clara Barton from the details provided in the text. Then, show an actual photograph. How do their portraits compare?
  - Before Chapter 7: Read Pink and Say by Patricia Pollacco. Compare and contrast to events in Civil War on Sunday.
  - Before Chapter 8: Read Drummer Boy: Marching to the Civil War by Ann Turner. What is the role of a drummer boy?
  - After Chapter 8: Visit http://www.civilwarmusic.net/songs.php for the music and lyrics in the Drummer’s and Fife’s Guide. When would these signals be used? Compare and contrast lyrics to a famous Union (“Battle Hymn”) and Confederate (“Dixie”) Civil War song.

- Choose a project from the Project Menu:
  - Write a diary from the perspective of someone living during the Civil War. You can be a slave, a slave owner, an abolitionist, a Union soldier, or a Confederate soldier.
  - Imagine you are a soldier. Design a postcard and write a letter home about your experiences in the war.
  - Create a diorama of a field hospital.

- As an entire class, create a Civil War Living Wax Museum. Directions are included later in this document.

- Extensions: Connect Civil War on Sunday with Abe Lincoln at Last! (#47) so students can learn more about Abraham Lincoln.
Lessons for Independent Reading

- Complete the Reading Guide to demonstrate reading comprehension.
- Complete a project or multiple projects from the “Pick a Project” menu.

Lessons for Literature Circles

- The “Morgan’s Library” cluster includes Civil War on Sunday, Revolutionary War on Wednesday, Twister on Tuesday, and Earthquake in the Early Morning. In these books, Jack and Annie are trying to save Camelot by finding four different types of writing: something to follow, something to send, something to learn, and something to lend.
- Students can jigsaw read in groups of 4-8 and then regroup in literature circles to find connections among the books.
- The entire class can do literature circles with these four books simultaneously to compare and contrast the different types of writing.
- Each student will complete activities associated with their book. Then, they can present their findings to other students in the class.
- Students can create their own writings to follow, send, learn, or lend!

Assessment

All assessment materials are in the Accompanying Materials.

- Reading Guide
- Literature study Rubric
- Culminating Task Rubric
How to Create a Living Wax Museum

For this whole-class project, each student will research one significant person to create an informational poster. (People can be selected to match your state’s standards at http://ehistory.osu.edu/uscw/features/people/list.cfm). At the end of the research project, invite other classes and parents to visit your “museum.”

Procedures:

1. In advance, the teacher should cater the list of Civil War people to meet state standards. Then, secure materials for researching each person. Ideas include textbooks, library resources, and the Internet. Another Magic Tree House book, Abe Lincoln at Last!, could also be a helpful research material. (For struggling readers, you can consolidate research for them into one printed page. See the Eli Whitney biography in the Accompanying Materials for an example.)

2. Brainstorm some of the significant Civil War people Jack and Annie met during their travels. What did they do that made them famous?

3. Distribute the Student Information Sheet (in the Accompanying Materials) to students and allow them to pick a person listed. Explain expectations and rubric.

4. Provide each student with the Student Wax Museum Research Sheet (in the Accompanying Materials) as a research outline. At the bottom of this sheet, there is a spot for students to make up a question that is answered in the research (example: Who invented the cotton gin? Answer: Eli Whitney). These questions will be used for a scavenger hunt later.

5. Edit students’ work with them. When revisions have been made, allow students to create an informational poster to display the results of their research. Wax people can’t talk, after all!

6. Finally, students will design their own prop (example: Abraham Lincoln might have his famous hat) and costume. Construction paper can do lots of impressive things! 😊

7. The teacher can compile all of the research questions students wrote at the bottom of the Student Wax Museum Research Sheet to create a scavenger hunt for visitors (or for the class!). Provide a key for visiting classes to check their work with their teacher. Here is an example:
Living Wax Museum Scavenger Hunt!

While you visit our living wax museum, see if you can find the answers to the following questions!

1. Where did they bury Sherman? ________________________________
2. Who was an abolitionist in Charleston, South Carolina? ________________
3. Who broke the law by teaching slaves how to read in Charleston, South Carolina? _________________________
4. Who was the President of the Confederacy? _________________________________
5. Who started a home for old people? ________________________________
6. Who loved math in school? ________________________________
7. Who was a famous nurse in the Civil War? ________________________
8. Who believed in states’ rights? ________________________________
9. Who is on the $50 bill? ________________________________
10. Who invented the cotton gin? ________________________________
11. Who had a submarine named after him? ________________________________
12. Who got shot when he came out of a theater? ________________________________

8. Dress up, freeze as Civil War people, and enjoy sharing your hard work and learning!
Extensions:
The Underground Railroad and the Quilt Code

_Civil War on Sunday_ also ties in well with the Underground Railroad. You can choose to go into as much or as little detail as you wish. Here are some resources:

- For general information, National Geographic has a great site at http://www.nationalgeographic.com/railroad/.
- There are many good books about the quilt code, including the following:
  - _Under the Quilt of Night_ (Deborah Hopkinson)
  - _The Secret to Freedom_ (Marcia Vaughn)
  - _Sweet Clara and the Freedom Quilt_ (Deborah Hopkinson)
  - _The Patchwork Path: A Quilt Map to Freedom_ (Bettye Stroud)
  - _Show Way_ (Jacqueline Woodson).
Several of the patterns discussed in these books are depicted at this site: http://www.osblackhistory.com/quiltcodes.php.
How to Create a Class Quilt Code

After exploring some of the resources above, have students create their own secret quilt code and explain its meaning. Combine into a class quilt. A rubric is in the Accompanying Materials.

Materials:

- Examples of quilt codes
- One piece of plain computer paper for each child
- Art materials, like crayons, colored pencils, or scrap paper
- Pattern blocks (optional – integrate math standards)
- Sheet of bulletin board paper to make class quilt from individual squares

Procedures:

1. Before beginning the activity, cut each piece of computer paper into an 8 ½ by 8 ½ square. You can save the rectangular scrap for a later step if you wish.

2. Discuss some of the quilt code patterns we’ve been studying. What are students’ favorite patterns and why? What is something similar and different about each pattern?

3. Explain that students will now create their own quilt code with a secret message to help the slaves escape. If you wish to integrate geometry standards, you can show students how to use the pattern blocks to build a pattern and then trace each block. Add colors to the patterns, using crayons, colored pencils, or scraps of paper.

4. When students have finished their patterns, they will write a few sentences about what their pattern means. This writing can be completed on the rectangular scraps left over from cutting the computer paper into squares, or you can cut strips of construction paper for a colorful background.
5. After all student quilt squares and writings are over, assemble the class quilt as shown below. You can use the writings as a border on the quilt, or you can put them with each quilt square. This picture shows the writings used as the border.

1. What does every flash on the horizon mean? (p. 62-63) A shell might have killed someone or changed their life forever.
2. People fight for causes they believe in. Wars are not about glory and fame, but they’re about misery, pain, and sadness. (p. 63)
3. Now who wants to go home and who wants to stay? (p. 63-64) Annie wants to go home and Jack wants to stay.
4. Who said all the things on the list to follow? (p. 64) Clara Barton said them all.
5. What did Clara add to the list? (p. 64) “Do not forget those who love you.”
6. What did Jack definitely learn as a part of their journey? (p. 67) War is definitely not a game.
Chapter 10: Home, Sweet Home

1. Why does Jack love the thunder? (p. 70) It’s not cannon fire.
2. Why couldn’t Jack and Annie take the list home when they first got it? (p. 70) They had to live it first.
3. What was written on the new note on the floor? (p. 71) “Come back on Wednesday.”
4. Who was John the drummer boy? (p. 72) He was Jack and Annie’s great-great-great-grandfather.

Write the fact you find most interesting from the ones listed after Chapter 10.

PICK A PROJECT!

Now that you’ve finished reading Civil War on Sunday, pick a project to share with the class. Here are your options:

1. Create a diorama of a field hospital during the Civil War. Be sure to include a water source!
2. Write a diary from the perspective of someone living during the Civil War. You can be a slave, a slave owner, an abolitionist, a Union soldier, or a Confederate soldier.
3. Imagine you are a soldier. Design a postcard and write a letter home about your experiences in the war. Remember to include all five parts of a letter!

Civil War Living Wax Museum!

Have you ever visited a wax museum? Wax museums use wax to make life-size people to revisit certain periods in history. To add a twist on the traditional wax museum, we’re going to create a living wax museum! How?

1. Pick one of the people listed below.
(Or, pick more from http://ehistory.osu.edu/uscw/features/people/list.cfm).

Sarah Grimke          Ulysses S. Grant
Angelica Grimke       Clara Barton
Dorothea Dix          Harriet Tubman
Robert Smalls         Stonewall Jackson
John Calhoun          Nat Turner
Robert E. Lee          George Dixon
Abraham Lincoln       Joseph Rainey
Jefferson Davis       Eli Whitney
Wade Hampton          Emma Holmes
William Sherman       Frederick Douglass
H. L. Hunley          Sojourner Truth

2. In class, research your person to answer the following questions:
   - When did your person live?
   - What state is your person from?
   - What did your person do that was important during the Civil War period?
   - List three more interesting facts about your person.

3. Make a poster with these facts. Also, create an object or a costume to symbolize your person. (Non-Civil War example: Benjamin Franklin could be holding a kite with a key attached.)

4. Create a living wax museum! At the end of our unit, we will invite parents and other classes to tour our living wax museum. You will not be allowed to speak, just like wax people can’t speak—your poster and your prop/costume will do the talking!

Eli Whitney was born on December 8, 1765, in Westborough, Massachusetts. He is famous for inventing the cotton gin. The cotton gin helped Southern plantation owners clean the cotton faster, which allowed them to do fifty times more work each week and make even more money!

As a boy, Mr. Whitney grew up with his father, who was a rich farmer. His mother died when he was 11 years old. Mr. Whitney worked in his father's nail manufacturing workshop during the Revolutionary War when he was 14 years old. His stepmother didn't want him to go to college, so he worked as a farm worker and a teacher to save his own money. He went to Yale College. He was going to be a lawyer, but he ended up being an inventor instead. One of his inventions was the cotton gin. He planned on charging plantation owners to clean their cotton for them. His payment would be for them to give him part of their cleaned cotton. His cotton gin was in high demand, so other people began copying his invention. Because he wasn't getting the money from his invention, his cotton gin company went out of business in 1797. He married Henrietta Edwards in 1817. They had four children.

He died of cancer on January 8, 1825, in New Haven, Connecticut. He was 59 years old.
