ANIMAL HEROES SUPERMOMS!

HEATHER LANG and JAMIE HARPER
 illustrated by JAMIE HARPER

In comics-style panels full of facts and humor, this lively picture book investigates the amazing lengths animal mothers go to in caring for their young.

Use Supermoms! in your classroom to talk about animal survival skills, animal classification, and using humor to make nonfiction even more fun.

CANDLEWICK PRESS • TEACHER TIPS

- Make a list of students' pets (or use a class pet) and, as a class or in small groups, research the supermom skill(s) for each type of pet.
- Ask students to write or tell a story of how a caregiver in their life displayed a superhero move to keep them safe.
- The authors use speech bubbles to convey humor. Talk about this device, then have students choose an animal to write about and illustrate using speech bubbles.
- There are eighteen different animals included in the book. As a class, categorize them as mammals, fish, birds, reptiles, amphibians, and invertebrates.
